DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Patent Appl. Pub. No. 2002/0100187 (Polegato).

Polegato teaches a breathable sole comprising an insole with a plurality of holes (insole 17), an outsole with a plurality of holes (tread sole 13), a functional membrane system (midsole/insert) having a microporous hydrophobic membrane (222b; see figure 3bis and paragraphs #68-71) and a microporous hydrophilic membrane (222c; see figure 3bis and paragraphs #68-71).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 5-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Polegato '187.

Polegato teaches a breathable sole (see the details above) except for the materials as claimed and the more specific parameters of the hydrophilic and hydrophobic membranes. Polegato is silent with regard to the more specific parameters of the hydrophilic and hydrophobic membranes. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the membrane out of the materials as claimed, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Regarding the other specific parameters of the membranes (claims 5-9), it would appear to be an obvious design choice to construct the membranes with parameters as claimed inasmuch as a number of different characteristics would appear to be suitable depending on the individual wearer, the activity for be used for and the type of material. Since the applicant has not demonstrated or even alleged that these specifically claimed parameters for hydrophilic and hydrophobic membranes produces unexpected results, it is our conclusion that it would have been obvious for an artisan with ordinary skill to determine a workable or even optimum parameters for the membranes and thereby arrive at the specific variables claimed by the applicant.

Conclusion

5. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including:

-“The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references.”

--“A general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section.”

-Moreover, “The prompt development of a clear issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims.

Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 2163.06" MPEP 714.02. The "disclosure" includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
